Heart of Ohio Family Health to Offer COVID-19 IgG Antibody Testing

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Heart of Ohio Family Health (HOFHC) announced today that they are offering COVID-19 IgG antibody testing at their Capital Park and Whitehall locations for individuals who think they may have had coronavirus (COVID-19) but do not show symptoms.

COVID-19 IgG antibody testing, also known as serology testing, looks for a type of antibody called immunoglobulin G (IgG) through a simple blood test. IgG antibodies are produced by the body to protect against bacterial and viral infections.

“We have been providing COVID-19 testing since the pandemic began, including drive-up testing to reduce spread and ensure the safety of our patients and staff,” Dr. Buhari Mohammed, Chief Executive Officer at HOFHC said. “Now, more and more people want to know if they have had COVID-19, and we are happy to be able to provide these tests for the community,” he said.

The IgG antibody testing can be done in-person at our Capital Park or Whitehall facilities with a simple blood draw. New patients are being accepted at all locations with little to no waiting.

HOFHC also provides telehealth services, via phone or video conferencing, for both primary care and behavioral health and substance use disorder counseling. All services are provided regardless of ability to pay. HOFHC accepts most private insurances, Medicaid, Medicare and no insurance, and offers a sliding fee discount based on the patient’s income and number of dependents.
